

NEW GLADIOLI TYPES

PROF. HOUDYSHEL OF HIGH SCHOOL SUCCEEDS IN PRODUCING 20 VARIETIES

In the high school experimental garden, to the west of the school, is to be found the experimental garden in connection with the science classes. This is under the care of Prof. Houdyschel, general science teacher. This year a great deal of success was met with in the production of ordinary garden produce and flowers of all kinds.

Prof. Houdyschel for many years has made a study of cross-fertilization of plants and has also succeeded in making many interesting experiments in that field. "In this little patch," said Prof. Houdyschel, "there are 200 varieties of gladioli. Each one of these plants differs from the other in shape of the petals, in the length of the stem and in the number and color of the blossoms."

"Originally they all came from the yellow gladiolus found in Central Africa, on the shores of Lake Victoria, by English travelers. There are two types of gladioli hybrids, the gladiolus hybrids proper and the gladiolus primulius. In creating these hybrids I started with the gladiolus primulius, crossing it with the ordinary improved types."

"Each flower has three stamens and one pistil. The work of cross-fertilization is very simple. We take flowers in which the pollen has not been shed and the pistil has not been fertilized. By rubbing the perfect stamen on the perfect pistil the fertilization takes place. Some experimenters to insure having flowers that have not already been tampered with by the fertilization of insects or birds tie up the blossom so that no foreign substance can get into it. Further to insure the complete immaculateness of the blooms they cut out the stamens."

"In our ordinary work, however, this is too slow a process and the work of fertilization is carried on without these precautions. As many as a million blossoms have been experimented with in order to produce these 200 varieties. Just look at those gradations and varieties of color. Here is a beautiful lavender blossom, quite a rare and delicate shade. Here are delicate white blossoms with a shade of lavender in the center."

"Here is a salmon pink type. Just look at the delicate carmine shade in the throat of that blossom! It is wonderful. Here are deep yellows close descendants of the original yellow type of which there is an excellent specimen here. Here is another pink and here are some with rare copper tones."

"One peculiarity can be noticed in these highly bred flowers. They have had their qualities so intensified by this cross breeding that there is a surplus of tissue energy and that makes the edges of the petals assume a ruffled appearance. This, too, it may be noticed, has appeared in the cross-fertilization work of other breeders of hybrid gladioli."

"I have been trying to get a plain black gladiolus. Here is the nearest approach to that type. You see that there is a layer of black color on the surface. A little more in-breeding will increase that color and finally I hope to produce a plain black gladiolus. I began selecting the deep shades of red and crossing them, gradually getting deeper and deeper shades."

"Here is a yellow gladiolus. One that has bred back in some fashion to the original. A case of reversion to type."

"This is all interesting work and I found my science students deeply interested in the experiments, many of which they made themselves. The school gardens have been rather neglected in these closing days, but the students have had much good out of them and those who elected to take this work will find pleasure in following it up in their own homes. It is the kind of work the taste for which never dies."

CLOSE OF HIGH SCHOOL

SIXTY GRADUATES GIVEN DIPLOMAS ON FINAL DAY OF SCHOOL YEAR

When the opening strains of the March from Tannhauser rang through the High school auditorium Thursday night they heralded the entry of as fine a class of graduates as Glendale has ever sent out from its halls. The applause that greeted the young students showed that their friends and relatives took the same kindly interest in this important step in the career of the young people as friends and relatives have always done. The auditorium was filled with an interested gathering.

The Rev. E. Dudley Snudden gave the invocation. Cecil Crandall then played Beethoven's beautiful violin solo, the "Romance in G," in which he exhibited much delicacy of expression and that ease in double stopping which is so fascinating a quality in this accomplished young musician's playing. He was accompanied by Miss Dorothy Lee with great taste and discrimination.

The Rev. Daniel F. Fox, D. D., of Pasadena, gave the address to the graduates. He founded his remarks on the quatrain of the Rev. Henry Van Dyke:

"Think without confusion clearly;
Love your fellowman sincerely;
Act from honest motives purely;
Trust in God and Heaven securely."

Dr. Fox reminded the graduates that they were living in a world of trouble today. Everywhere the nations were in confusion and turmoil and it was the duty of all to think clearly under these circumstances. It was the lack of clear thinking that had brought on this war in Europe. With many well-chosen illustrations the speaker showed the value of clear thinking. He instanced the appeal of Armour, the great meat packer, to his staff to think up methods of getting profit out of the meat industry and showed how by application of clear thought at last every part of the animal was utilized, and how in addition to the mere packing industry the big plant began to turn out glue, glycerine, buttons, beef extract and many other by-products.

In like manner the speaker showed how the application of pure thought to the gas industry brought additional millions of dollars annually to the manufacturers of that product from such byproducts as roofing tar, dyes, saccharine, vanilla extract, perfumes and many other valuable chemical substances. Thought applied to so small a matter as the lacing of shoes produced a fortune. The harnessing of Niagara Falls was a gold mine to the man who thought it out.

The world, said the speaker, demands something more than mere materialism, however. If we think clearly we enter higher realms than those of materialism. The men who have moved the world thought in other terms than those of materialism. Such men have been the beacon lights of history. They got thought into their speech.

Speaking of the idea in the quatrain, "Love your fellowman sincerely," the speaker said that the country is full at present of the ideas of patriotism and brotherhood. The young men who have gone to the front in Europe are not thinking of themselves but of others. But there is a higher patriotism than that of militarism. While one might admire the patriotism of the men who are fighting in the trenches one cannot but condemn the crowned heads who have made such patriotism a necessity. The world is getting closer together every day. We must have courage in the realm of peace where brotherhood thinks clearly and loves sincerely. He advocated the taking of the manufacture of war munitions from private manufacturers and making it a government affair; putting the question of war to a referendum vote and making those who voted for war do the fighting.

All nature, said the speaker, shows perfection—the big trees of California have reached their perfection through 4000 years. You cannot add to them; they are beyond criticism. The spider is the most accomplished bridge builder; the bee evolved the idea of the hexameter-shaped cell for honey, the strongest and most economical form for that purpose; the beaver is the best dam builder in the world. Man alone shows imperfection. But man is always going on. He is yet to develop. He has infinity before him. The completion of the four years' high school course is wisely called "Commencement." It is a beginning. So is each successive step; so is the step into the next world. He urged the young people to act from honest motives

BORDER RAID DETERMINES WILSON TO REFUSE TO WITHDRAW TROOPS FROM MEXICO

(Special Service to Glendale Evening News)

WASHINGTON, D. C., June 16.—Secretary Lansing completed this morning the draft of the note to Carranza, in which President Wilson informs the de facto ruler of Mexico that the United States does not consider the time opportune for the withdrawal of the American troops from that country. The news of the latest raid on American territory and the killing of three American troopers and the wounding of others emphasizes, the note says, the failure of Carranza to police the border and the necessity for the presence of American troops.

The others never reached the French trenches. They were caught in the zone of fire and almost completely wiped out.

PACKER MEETING

GLENDAL CANDIDATE FOR SUPERVISOR WELL RECEIVED AT SAN FERNANDO

The Stephen C. Packer campaign for supervisor of the Fifth Supervisorial district of Los Angeles county was opened at Cody's theatre, in San Fernando, Thursday evening, at which time Attorney Mattison B. Jones of Glendale delivered an able address setting forth the magnitude of the Fifth Supervisorial district and the qualifications of Mr. Packer. Mr. Jones did not ask the people to take his personal statement as to Mr. Packer's qualifications but he read strong endorsements of Mr. Packer from about ten of the newspapers published in this district.

Mr. Packer met with a hearty reception at San Fernando and after the meeting was over very common remarks were, "I am for Packer," "San Fernando is for Packer," "We are Packer men up here."

Following the address by Mr. Jones, Mr. Packer gave a very comprehensive statement outlining briefly the course he will pursue if elected supervisor. He informed the audience that he is fully cognizant of the importance of the position and in a few weeks it is his intention to submit to the voters a platform of principles he will favor carrying out if elected.

Dr. Stone of San Fernando presided as chairman of the meeting and at an opportune time he spoke forcibly in favor of Mr. Packer's candidacy for supervisor. There were about fifty of Mr. Packer's Glendale friends in attendance at this opening meeting.

DECORATE FOR TEMPLARS

Glendale merchants are asked to decorate their stores and citizens generally to decorate their residences in honor of the Thirty-third National Triennial gathering of the Knights Templar, which is now convening in Los Angeles. The program of outside trips designates Glendale as one of the cities through which the visitors will pass Sunday. As the members of this great order represent every state in the union, it is well that Glendale should put on a real dressed up appearance when the visitors pass through our city. Full particulars as to the streets over which they will pass will be published in tomorrow's issue of the News.

WHEAT 4,000 YEARS OLD

It is quite possible that an attempt will be made to grow, in American soil, some wheat which was raised in Egypt, 4,000 years ago. This grain was sent to a citizen of Dallas, Texas, by a former United States consul in Egypt. It has been taken from the tomb of one of the ancient kings upon the banks of the Nile, but it had been so wonderfully preserved that it showed little signs of deterioration.

On being taken from the tomb it was immediately put in a glass container and hermetically sealed. To all outward appearances it is just as sound as the day it was threshed, when the earth was inhabited by civilization that is now extinct. Agricultural experts are of the opinion that it will germinate, and the experiment will be made during the coming year with the utmost care.

HAMILTON SPEAKS SATURDAY

Under the auspices of the Chamber committee of the Glendale Chamber of Commerce, John J. Hamilton will speak Saturday, June 17, in the city hall, at 8 p. m. ## SOCIAL NOTES

ANGELINE ZERR A BRIDE—GOLD LUNCHEON AT CASA VERDUGO—P. E. O. WORK

KNOCH-ZERR

The home of Mr. and Mrs. Francis Zerr, 141 Cedar street, was the scene of a pretty wedding Thursday evening, when their daughter, Miss Angeline, became the bride of Robert Paul Knoche, of Grand Junction, Colorado. Members of the immediate family circle witnessed the ceremony, the relatives of Mr. Knoche journeying from Colorado to attend.

To the soft strains of Lohengrin, played on the violin and piano by Mr. and Mrs. Elijah Zerr, the wedding party entered the large living-room, and under a pergola covered with asparagus plumosus and flowers in the pastel shades of pink, blue, lavender and yellow, Rev. C. R. Norton performed the marriage service.

The bride was gowned in white net, silver cloth and lace over white silk and carried a shower bouquet of Bride roses and lilies of the valley. She was attended by Mrs. Donald C. MacBain, nee Miss Frances Zerr, who was dressed in light blue chiffon taffeta and embroidered net, and carried delicate pink carnations. Mr. William Knoche attended his brother as best man.

After a buffet supper, the bride donned her traveling costume, which was "A study in browns," and the new Mr. and Mrs. Robert Paul Knoche flitted away somewhere, but will be at home to their many friends at 1446 Vine street, Glendale, after July first.

GOLD LUNCHEON

Mrs. M. S. Hewitt, who is at present at the home of her son, W. E. Hewitt, 728 North Louise street, entertained a number of friends at a delightful luncheon typical of sunny California, Thursday. The guests were from Pasadena, Los Angeles and Santa Ana and nearly all were former residents of Detroit, Michigan, the home city of the hostess. The guests were received at the Hewitt home by the hostess and her daughter, Mrs. W. E. Hewitt, and when all had arrived the party motored to the Casa Verdugo restaurant where a table had been arranged in the patio under the arbors among the flowers and there to the accompaniment of music of the birds the lovely luncheon was served. The color scheme was gold, the centerpiece of golden blossoms harmonizing with the other appointments of the perfectly arranged table where covers were laid for eighteen. Following the luncheon, bird decorated score cards were given the guests and an afternoon of bridge completed the happy affair.

THE ALUMNI TO ENTERTAIN

The Alumni association of the G. U. H. S. will welcome the Class of 1916 into their midst at the Annual Ball, Saturday evening, June 17, at the Masonic Temple. The music, which will be of unusual quality, is to be furnished by a Los Angeles orchestra.

Besides the regular dance numbers the class will be entertained by exhibition dancing, vocal and violin solos, and a whistling solo by Miss Lois Candee, one of the Alumni members. A brief business meeting will be held some time during the evening. The Temple is to be elaborately decorated in red and white, which are the colors of the present graduating class.

P. E. O. CLOSE WORK

Chapter L. of P. E. O. closed its year's work with an all-day meeting at the home of Mrs. John Pirtle, of Verdugo Park, on Wednesday, June 14. The morning was taken up with the usual routine of business, after which a delightful buffet luncheon was served. The afternoon was given over to music and the reading of a chapter letter from Mrs. Douglas, nee Mrs. Brown, of Selma, and a general good and social time.

The work will be taken up again in September, for which time a nice year's program has been arranged, along with philanthropic work.

PACIFIC AVENUE READING CIRCLE

The Pacific Avenue Reading Circle will not meet on Monday. The meeting has been postponed until Wednesday at the usual hour, 2 p. m., when the reading of "Misunderstood Children" will be resumed. ## FAMILY SYSTEM IN JAPAN

So much has been said of late with regard to the relations between the United States and Japan that a little study of the family system of that great nation may not be out of place. Japan prides itself on its family system. It is a land of happy families. No-where else in the world can one see so many happy smiling children. It is a land of children who, to the greatest freedom in their own lives add the highest deference and obedience to parents. The family is the unit of the nation. The privileges of the nation center in its head the emperor and the privileges of the family center in the father.

Each unit in the family labors for the common good and strives to enhance the social and material position of the family. Thus the privileges and duties of families are of far greater importance than those of individuals. Only recently has the state taken an interest in family affairs. The head of the family has had charge of the education of the members and even in some cases had the right to execute criminals in his own family.

In the eleventh and twelfth centuries the family system reached its highest point. Though it has lost some of its meaning in these latter days it maintains much of its old aspect and its ancient essence. In matters of lineage the head of the family is still of paramount significance and the rights of the firstborn are of vast importance.

Children in Japan hold themselves responsible for the support of their parents. Some changes have been made. Newly married couples do not live with the man's parents; the sons do not always take their parents' choice in brides and the position of the mother-in-law is not so assured as it used to be. Self-sacrifice on the part of wives, however, is still the ideal of the land. All good girls' schools teach this.

Formerly the head of the family was the employer of his own family in the family trade. Now the master industry has taken the place of the head of the family. The hundreds of employees in any industry are like children under one father. This has brought about a system of smaller families in which individual parents take a more personal interest in their children. In short, what took place in the West is now only beginning in Japan. The family system is under evolution. Ancient custom and sentiment still holds sway in the family and in the nation.

Japan, as time goes on, will doubtless develop along modern lines. The Japanese have an individuality as a nation which with all their eclecticism is likely to cause them to develop something new in family life and relationship. The Japanese are quick to learn and will doubtless recognize what is good in the Western ideal of human relations in the family. The Eastern woman while retaining her essential femininity is thus likely to gain something of the freedom that characterizes her Western sister.

It will be difficult for the Japanese to give up entirely all their old ways and the world would be much the poorer if they should do so. The Japanese themselves regret the passing away of the old ways and this sentiment is likely to preserve much that is both interesting and picturesque in the national life of the country. A system that produced the mighty wave of sentiment that developed the great army of Japan in 1905 and the great victories of that and the following year on land and sea must have much good in it.

SIGNIFICANCE OF PREPAREDNESS PARADE

Taking into consideration the fact that 70,000 persons marched in the preparedness parade in Los Angeles Thursday it is not too much to add that in testimony of their belief in that principle those people spent at least $150,000. When one takes into consideration the small flags and other emblems carried by the paraders the cost of which at 15 cents apiece would amount to $10,500; the big flags and the many other expenses of decorations throughout the city at, say $20,000; the half-day's wages of those who marched and the expenses of the crowd it is far below the real amount to state that the people of Los Angeles and its vicinity were willing to spend the sum already stated in order to testify to their desire that this country may have peace with honor.

No statesman or politician need misinterpret the mind of the United States on this point. The people of the United States are not anxious for war. They are a peace-loving and peaceable nation. The abhor the evils of war and are fully alive to its economic loss, but they are also aware that they can only have peace with honor when they are able to defend their own rights.

Everywhere throughout the country the sentiment is the same. Two men out of every three to whom one speaks favor universal training of the nation after the Swiss model. They want a citizen army—an army that will provide adequate protection for the country and at the same time will not withdraw from economic production the best blood of the nation.

Such a parade as that in Los Angeles yesterday is a very plain and practical demonstration that the sense of the people is aroused on this important subject and that they will tolerate no political party that does not make ample and adequate provision for the safety of the nation. They want a fleet strong enough to guard both the Atlantic and the Pacific coast; fortifications on land to guard the harbors and provide safe recruiting and repairing, re-coaling and revictualing centers for the vessels of that fleet, and a large and mobile land force that can be sent at a moment's notice to any threatened point.

Yesterday's parade shows that the people are in earnest. They went to Los Angeles from all points to add their presence to the mighty demand for adequate protection of the nation's interests. They left their work, they closed their stores, they sacrificed their day's wages and their day's profits, where necessary, to add the weight of their protest to that of the nation against present conditions.

The United States does not desire war. It desires peace; but it has come to understand that peace can not be obtained by any nation that is not prepared to back up its protests against interna-

THE COMING

O Son of Man, to right my lot
Naught but Thy presence can avail;
Yet on the road Thy wheels are not,
Nor on the sea Thy sail!

My how or when Thou wilt not heed,
But come down Thine own secret stair.

That Thou may'st answer all my need,
Yea, every bygone prayer.

KITCHEN HINTS

To give a rich brown to pastry, brush over with the yolk of an egg, beaten with two tablespoons of milk, about 10 minutes before taking out of the oven.

We gazed pityingly on the listless drug store clerk leaning against the soda fountain.

"Haven't you any ambition?" we asked him.

"No," he replied, with brightening intelligence, "but I have something just as good."—Newburgh Journal.

tional injustice by the strong hand. The whole world looks to the United States to play a prominent part in the councils of the world as it has done in the past. The settlement of important world questions are to be made very soon and if this country is to have its accustomed place in the council that will determine those questions she must be prepared to assume part of the burden that is necessary to maintain the peace of the world once peace has been regained.

That the people of the United States are determined to put themselves in a position where no foreign nation will dare to infringe their rights on sea or on land, and where no outside power will dare to question the humane principles for which this country has always stood was plainly seen in the earnestness of the parade in Los Angeles, its magnitude and its success.

THE REWARD

It is easy to battle when others are cheering us in the strife; But fiercer by far the conflicts are When no one marketh a single scar In the lonely struggles of life.

Full simple it is and pleasant To be true when the throng is true; But when foes assail and the false prevail 'Tis a different thing as a thousand fall To stand with the faithful few.

But merit is measured ever By the stress of the trial borne; And after the loss of the garish dress By him who carried the heavier cross The starker crown is worn. —Philip Burroughs Strong.

If a coloring matter is required, various shades may be made at home for candies, custards or ices. Saffron will give a yellow tint, spinach and beet leaves crushed and boiled in a little water will give green, and the juice of strawberries, raspberries, blackberries or elderberries will produce varying shades of pink in summer; in winter, cranberries will give pink.

Mrs. May V. Kenyon, 1500 Oak street, accompanied by her son Ralph, left this week for Berkeley, Cal., where she will pay an extended visit to her daughter, Mrs. Laura Sprinkler.

Mr. and Mrs. W. Wells and daughter, Mrs. Ada Bailey, and Mrs. Emily Hough, of Whittier, motored to Glendale and were the afternoon guests of Mrs. Ida M. Smith, 332 N. Louise street, Thursday.

Mr. and Mrs. H. J. Miller, of 906 Ethel street, are the happy parents of a 7-lb. baby daughter, who arrived at Thornycroft hospital, Tuesday, June 13. The tiny maiden will be christened Maude Ivy Miller.

G. B. Hoffman, city treasurer, who has suffered for some time from an affection of the throat, and recently underwent an operation for the relief of that trouble, is considerably better and is able to be at his office every day.

Mrs. Frank Hitchcock returned this week from a visit in Idaho. She and her husband are residing at present at 1685 W. Seventh street, but as Mr. Hitchcock is working for the Universal Film company, it is likely that they will move to Universal city.

Mrs. Frank Morris, who has been doing substitute work as a teacher in the High school, during the past session, left for Indianapolis, where she will spend a vacation. Afterward she will accompany her husband, Frank Morris, who has been teaching mathematics in the High school, to Berkeley, where Mr. Morris has a teaching fellowship, in the summer school.

IN SYMPATHY WITH OUR INTERESTS

The voters of the fifth supervisorial district should give serious consideration to the election of a successor to R. W. Pridham. The board of supervisors have supervision of the expenditure of approximately twenty millions of dollars annually, and the manner of this enormous disbursement is a matter which vitally concerns the taxpayers from whom it comes. We believe that Mr. Pridham's successor should be a thorough-going business man who has demonstrated his capacity by having made a success of his private enterprises. We believe Stephen C. Packer, of Glendale, has the qualifications to fill this most important public office. Mr. Packer has demonstrated his business capacity; he has made a success of his own business, and we believe he can be safely entrusted with the county's business. Mr. Packer is a resident of the San Fernando Valley and the interests of that valley are closely allied with those of Antelope Valley; and Mr. Packer, if elected, would have an interest in seeing that Antelope Valley got a square deal and that the good road projects, now under way, are pushed in all directions.—Lancaster Ledger and Gazette.

S. W. GRATHWELL

A treat is in store for all, both old and young, who appreciate hearing a good speaker on a live, vital question. The citizens of Glendale are invited to attend the public meeting to be held at the Sanitarium on this Saturday evening, 8 p. m. S. W. Grathwell, the young orator from Stanford University, will speak. He is three times winner of the Oregon State Oratorical contests; winner of Interstate Oratorical contest; Stanford Intercollegiate Debate team 1915; Cornot Debate team 1916.

Mrs. A. Jud Shepard, Miss Jessie and Arthur Shepard, of 1535 Pioneer Drive, left last Saturday to spend the summer vacation with Mrs. Shepard's parents in Missouri.

All the foothills is rejoicing in a most abundant blackberry crop. Picking is going on merrily this week. The berries are of unusually large size in many cases and have a particularly fine flavor.

Preparedness day brought a very large contingent of transient visitors to the Casa Verdugo cafe. They arrived early and kept arriving all day. Many of them were visiting the Foothills for the first time.

William, the three-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. W. D. McRae, who was taken suddenly ill with pneumonia the other day, is rapidly recovering.

W. D. McRae, State field secretary of the Y. M. C. A., who has been organizing Y. M. C. A. centers in Santa Clara county, for some time past, and was summoned to his home this week, on account of the illness of his youngest child, leaves again for his field of work, Sunday evening.

Dr. Curtis and family of N. Central avenue, are going to Laguna Beach for a vacation. Afterward they will return to their home in Olivet, Mich.

Dr. J. E. Eckles, of N. Central avenue, lectures tonight to a large party of former students of his own, who are now medical men in Los Angeles and its vicinity. The lecture will be given in one of the large rooms of the Columbia Trust and Savings building. The lecture will be on "Tuberculosis—Its Diagnosis and Cure." Dr. Eckles is an expert on the subject of tuberculosis.

ANCIENT ART REVIVED

Alfred Lenz, a sculptor living on Long Island, has rediscovered the lost art, once prevalent among the Chinese, of casting a perfect blossom in bronze, silver, or gold from the very flower itself. He takes a rose, for example, and preserves its delicacy and beauty in enduring metal.

Unlike all former processes outside of China, the flower or other object is itself used. How the bronze forces its way into the finest crevices has not been disclosed, but it does. Mr. Lenz says that he seems to have hit upon some lucky combination of chemical constituents which lead the melted material everywhere, even to the tiniest pathways.

"I expect to take flowers and enamel them in their original colors," says Mr. Lenz. "In fact there is hardly a limit to preserving flowers and other beautiful things.

CLOSE OF HIGH SCHOOL

purely and trust in God and Heaven securely. Those who did so were at home anywhere in God's universe. To think, to love, to act, to trust. These are common things, but it is by common things this world is governed—common schools, common law, common sense. These things are of the nature of genius and those who pursue the common round, the daily task of the light of clear thought, pure love, courageous action and above all faith are themselves bringing on the time when this whole earth shall everywhere be bound with golden chains about the feet of God.

Principal Moyse then presented the class. He said that within the past six years Glendale High school had increased wonderfully. The enrollment this year was three-and-a-half times greater than in 1909. Fifty percent of the graduates were above the average of scholarship and 50 per cent of them intended to pursue their studies at other institutions.

The Rev. W. F. Rice, D. D., of Eagle Rock, presented the diplomas. The Senior Girls' Glee club sang "Lady of Dreams" and "Whichever Way the Wind Doth Blow." The latter piece is by Julia Grassel, class of 1916. The proceedings closed with Wagner's "Nibelungen March," to the strains of which the graduates marched off the platform.

Pickled cherries are very little known, though they are delicious. Sound, ripe, rather sour cherries are best for pickling. For five pounds of cherries, scald together one quart of vinegar, two pounds of sugar, a half ounce of stick cinnamon, and half an ounce of whole cloves and mace mixed. The spices are tied in a thin cheesecloth bag. Pack the cherries into jars and pour the boiling hot spiced vinegar over them. Seal while hot.

A new version is, "If at first you don't succeed, find out the reason and then try again."

TRAITS OF BIRDS

Observations of the habits of the English sparrow, made by the United States Biological Survey, show how living things adapt themselves to varying conditions so as to make the most of their surroundings, and then become the victims of other changes that do not, at first sight, seem to concern them at all. The birds brought to the Atlantic coast of this country several generations ago spread rapidly all over the land, but stuck tenaciously to the cities.

The spreading flocks did not stop at international boundaries, but have been traced by the Survey observers both into Canada and Mexico. The cold of the former country has brought almost a complete change of habits. The immigrants to Canada have become more thrifty, built much warmer nests than their cousins south of the international line, and have taken to building in hollow trees, a practice not common among the sparrows either in Central or Southern States or in England. The sparrows that have gone into Mexico, on the other hand, have taken to building light nests and lead a distinctly subtropical existence.

THE WAR WITH WRONG

What is necessary to make one forbearing? A great deal of good sense with a little piety. How many persons would dare each evening to say simply to God: "My God, treat me tomorrow as I have treated such a person, whom I have rudely repulsed, whose faults I have brought to light through malice or to parade my wit; as I have treated another, to whom, through pride, through aversion, through contempt, I have refused to speak, whom I have avoided, whom I cannot like because she displeased me, whom I cannot pardon, and with whom I do not wish to exchange any civility." And yet do not forget that, sooner or later, God will do unto you as you do unto others.—"Golden Sands."

NONSINKABLE BOAT

Among the fishermen of Newfoundland a new kind of boat has been put in service which is nonsinkable. It is of the type known as the dory.

There are four water-tight compartments under the cross seats, bow and stern, and water-tight portholes in the tops of the seats give access to the interior of the tanks. If the boat should capsize, it cannot sink, and access to it is afforded through portholes in the bottom. Thus the food supply can be reached even though the craft is bottom side up.

Owing to the frequent loss of life in the old-fashioned boats in times of high seas which the fishermen encounter, the new type of craft is a great boon.

Beware of anger; it is both sinful and foolish. A wise Frenchman said he could think of no worse punishment for his worse enemy than that of being always angry.—Selected.

THE GOWN WITHOUT A HOOK

We have had the dress which fastened with three, two, or even a single hook, but here is a frock which has no fasteners whatever. It is made of soft taffeta, in a delicate lavender. The blouse is cut like a middy, and slips on over the head. It is smocked on each side of the front, along the shoulders, and across the back with soft green silk. White chiffon over green silk forms the collar, which is not as wide or deep as a sailor collar. The skirt is smocked to form a six-inch yoke, and is sewed on to the blouse with an elastic as a waistband. This elastic stretches to permit the frock to go on over the head. A large, soft green cord with loose tassels ties about the waist and hangs down at one side, and a narrow green silk cord, ending in tiny tassels, laces up the front of the blouse. Time expended in putting on the frock—one minute!

A SEWING ROOM HINT

"When I'm making a dress, or sewing on anything that takes a good deal of thread," said a woman who makes her own clothes, "I fasten the various spools of basting cotton, silk, cotton thread, twist, and embroidery silk to the edge of the sewing table or the window sill by thrusting a long pin through each spool and sticking the pin in the wood. In this way the spools never become misplaced, and fresh needlefuls of thread may be pulled off as needed. If I am sitting by the window, I use the sill; otherwise, the table edge. The long pins which come with bunches of violets or other corsage flowers are handy for this purpose. The looseness of the spool permits it to revolve easily and to release the thread quickly. I never have to hunt for my thread or grope around for the spool."

TO FRY GREAT HOMINY

Have ready a clean greased spider not over the coals; put in a teaspoon of lard or butter, let it melt, then put in about a quart and a half of boiled hominy. Stir it well with the lard or butter. Let it fry, stirring it occasionally. When the water is dried out of it, with the spoon mold it into round shape in the spider. Let it so remain till breakfast is ready and then, with a knife, loosen the hominy from the spider and place in a dish, bottom up. Turn it out and serve hot. It will have a rich brown crust and, with well seasoned sausages, makes a good breakfast dish.

CUCUMBER AND SALMON SALAD

Pare and cut into thin slices three large cucumbers and place in a pan with one stalk of celery, six drops of onion juice, two tablespoons of white vinegar, one bay leaf, salt and a dash of paprika, and one cup of cold water. Simmer slowly until tender, then press through a puree sieve. Return to the fire, add three tablespoons of gelatine, and color slightly with spinach juice. Chill in a ring mold, fill the center with cold canned salmon, chopped celery and radishes, mixed with mayonnaise. Garnish with small cucumber pickles and plumes of shredded celery.

SEA FOAM CANDY

One and one half cups of light brown sugar, a half cup of cold water, one teaspoon of vinegar, the white of one egg, a half cup of chopped nut meats. Boil the sugar, water, and vinegar until it will form a ball when dropped in cold water. Have the white of the egg beaten to a stiff froth. Pour the sirup into it very slowly, beating constantly. When it begins to cream, add the nuts and a drop or two of vanilla. When creamed, drop on buttered tins or paraffin paper, or pour into buttered tins and cut in squares. If it gets stiff but will not cream, put it into a double boiler and beat constantly. Let it stay on the fire until the parts sticking to the edge of the pan begin to look creamy.

SCALLOPED ARTICHOKE

Wash and scrape the artichokes and stew until done, adding a seasoning of salt and pepper before removing from stove. Drain and put in a casserole in the following order: A layer of artichokes, a little cream sauce, a sprinkling of cracker crumbs and a few shavings of pimento, another layer of artichokes, etc., until the dish is filled. Sprinkle cracker crumbs over the top and bits of butter. Bake a few minutes in oven until nicely browned on top. Chopped parsley may be used instead of pimentos, if preferred.

ROSE LEAF CAKES

One cup of rose leaves, three cups of flour, one cup of sugar, three quarters of a cup of butter, three eggs, one cup of milk, one lemon, two teaspoons of baking powder, a half teaspoon of salt. Cream the butter and sugar thoroughly together, then add the eggs well beaten, flour, baking powder, salt, milk, the grated rind of the lemon and one tablespoon of the juice, and the fresh rose leaves. Divide into buttered and floured gem pans, and bake in a moderate oven from 12 to 15 minutes. This is sufficient for 35 cakes.

SACRIFICE

The greatest sacrifice of all is to be willing not to sacrifice in one's own way.—Charlotte M. Yonge.

PRIDE

Take care not to pride yourself on being above pride.—Elizabeth Charles.

FIG FRITTERS

One quart flour, three eggs, a little salt and enough chopped figs to make a batter. Fry in hot lard.

RICE WITH LAMB

Moisten with gravy, cover with a layer of rice, and bake covered for half an hour in a moderate oven. Remove the cover, spread with soft butter and brown. Serve with cream or tomato sauce.

National preparedness does not mean war—it means an absence of war.

TO BOIL GREAT HOMINY

Put the hominy into a big pot or boiler, filled with cold water, and fill a teakettle at the same time. Let both boil and, as the hominy absorbs the water, keep replenishing from the teakettle. Boil the hominy 12 hours—say from 7 in the morning to 7 in the evening. Keep it steadily boiling all the while, filling up from the kettle till the last hour, when it should dry away till the hominy is merely moist. It is now done. Add salt to taste and serve hot. Eat it with milk or butter.

THE FLYING-SQUIRREL

Of all the tenants of the woods, the flying-squirrel is perhaps the most seldom seen, yet this is not due to any scarcity of the little animal, which, in fact, is among the most numerous of the squirrel family, but to its habit of moving almost entirely at night. Should you doubt this last statement, enter some patch of forest convenient to your home and strike solidly upon the trunks of such trees as appear to be dead and have one or more holes in the trunk; in about one time out of five your efforts will be rewarded by the appearance in the opening, as if by magic, of the bright eyes and up-standing ears of a flying-squirrel.

These squirrels do not, of course, fly; but their legs are connected at the "wrists" with a light membrane, which serves as a sort of parachute, although it has some of the possibilities of an aeroplane. Before making a flight, the squirrel will run rapidly up the trunk of a tree, and, when he has attained a sufficient height, spring boldly off into space. With legs spread wide apart, so as to present the greatest possible surface to the air, and his extraordinarily wide and fluffy tail serving as a rudder, the squirrel sails swiftly through the air, often for one hundred feet or more, until he reaches the trunk of another tree, up which he runs in order to attain height for a new flight. By this method flying-squirrels are able rapidly to cover long distances with little exertion, for often, when nearing the end of a long sail, they will point themselves upward and by means of their "rudders" and the impetus given, will rise almost to the height at which they started—just as a boy riding down hill may be carried over a lesser up-grade at the foot.—A. E. Swoyer, in the January St. Nicholas.

SCALLOPED CABBAGE

Boil the cabbage in water for about five minutes, adding a pinch of soda. Drain thoroughly and place cabbage in clear water again—enough to cover it—and boil until tender. Chop the drained cabbage and place a layer of it in a porcelain dish. Cover with sauce made of one cup milk, two tablespoons butter, two tablespoons flour, and seasoning to taste. Cover the first layer of cabbage with sauce and sprinkle with grated cheese. Repeat until the materials are all used. Sprinkle the top with paprika, grated cheese and bread crumbs, with dabs of butter. Bake until brown. The cheese may be omitted, if not liked.
